Chemical treatment: targeted industrial cleaning solution

We offer industrial chemical treatment services to restore the surface condition of your equipment: heat exchangers, networks, columns, tanks or process circuits.

Using targeted chemical products adapted to each situation, this process helps remove deposits, disinfect or decontaminate a circuit, while preserving the integrity of your installations.

Optimize the performance of your industrial equipment.

Internal Chemical treatment of a stripping column

A major player in the chemical industry asked CTP environnement to clean the packing in a stripping column on its production site. Previously this had been carried out by removing the packing and mechanically cleaning it in a washing area

This on-site chemical circulation treatment suggested by CTP reduced significantly the time the column was out of service by preventing the removal of the column.

The quality of the chemical treatment produced identical, or even better results than mechanical cleaning, in addition to being faster (a 1/3rd reduction in the total time to complete the operation). This trial led to client's total satisfaction and similar quarterly chemical treatment were immediately scheduled.
